Computers and the brain in the future

Undertake your own research and find how we might use technology in the future to improve what we can do with our brains.

Save appropriate images to your area, giving them a sensible name.

Some ideas to get you started:

- Ability to download and store your memories
- Create a complete digital record of your life
- Mind/emotion control devices
- Dream control devices
- Download training for example, learn to fly a plane from a computer program
- Personality implants
